

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An image forming apparatus having a forming unit which forms an image onto a recording medium on the basis of acquired image information, a fixing unit
5 which fixes the formed image by heating the recording medium onto which the image has been formed by the forming unit, and a control unit which detects temperatures of the fixing unit and generates a temperature change table, and which carries out
10 temperature control on the basis thereof.